CAIRO, Dec. 16.—Faced with the possibility of annihilation on their own soil, Italian forces stiffened along the Libyan frontier today and gave spirited battle to British troops engaged in a flanking counter-invasion that menaced the strategic Libyan port of Bardia.

With British mechanized units reported spearing across the frontier at various points, heavy fighting was reported all along and across the border.

Italian troops still hold strongly defended posts about El Sollum, last Egyptian stronghold remaining in Italian hands, an official communique admitted.

Official Communique

The statement said: "The enemy still holds strongly defended positions around El Sollum. Meanwhile our advance forces are well across the Libyan frontier where fighting continues in bad weather which still is interfering with visibility. On the Sudanese frontier, our patrols had another successful day."

PA NEW C OBSERVES

Causing quite a chirping disturbance Sunday afternoon in the six largest trees on the Public Square were a host of sparrows, merrily singing away and making so much noise that they could be heard above the roar of passing traffic.

Jack Mills, 120 Cochran way, and Fritz Kenny of Lincoln avenue returned Saturday night from Maricao, both were successful in shooting doves.

A familiar sight these days along city streets and highways are all sizes of trucks and vans, loaded to the top with Christmas trees. The silvered trees, or the ones which have been sprayed with silver paint, are more popular this year than ever before.

Christmas mailing is getting under way at the New Castle post office, it is indicated. All local residents are urged to join the procession and "mail early." Only by cooperation in early mailing are the best results achieved through the postal service. Indications locally are for record business in the post office during the next 10 days, so "mail early."

Dismissal Of Laval May Be Significant

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service Foreign Editor

There is one question of prime importance in Marshal Henri Philippe Petain's unceremonious dismissal of Pierre Laval as vice-premier and "No. 2" man in the confused French government at Vichy.

Did Adolf Hitler know of Petain's plan in advance or was he, like the rest of the world, taken by surprise?

The importance of this question stems from the fact that despite his unquestioned patriotism and his sincere desire to do his best for vanquished France, Petain thus far has, by force of circumstances, acted on orders from Berlin.

With Hitler's Approval?

If Laval went out of office with Hitler's approval and foreknowledge, Britain can expect little or nothing from the reconstituted Vichy government, in which Pierre-Etienne Flandin will henceforth fulfill Laval's duties as foreign minister.

But if for the first time the aged (Continued On Page Two)

Over 800,000 Men Now Under Arms In United States

By GRIFFING BANCROFT, JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—As gradual summoning of the first contingent of draftees ended today with induction of 20,370 trainees, military sources reported that the United States now has a total of 803,040 men actually under arms, by far a peacetime record.

In spite of a serious lag in construction of housing and other facilities, America's armed forces will pass the million mark early next year, and that figure will be doubled by summer, officials said.

Almost 100,000 National Guardsmen are yet to be called to active duty. Draftees will start pouring in as soon as the construction program catches up, and both the army and navy are intensifying their regular recruiting programs.

The men under arms today in the various branches of the service according to official figures, are:

Draftees, 20,370; regular army, 404,000; federalized guard, 135,000; navy, 197,300; marine corps, 46,370.

Night Raids Of Nazi Bombers Centered On Industrial City

SEVERAL HOUR ATTACK IS MADE

(International News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Returning to the British Isles after carrying out a fierce Coventry-like night attack on the industrial steel town of Sheffield, German raiders today made "single" attacks on London, Liverpool and the East Anglia area.

The daylight raids, however, were light and in no way compared with the night assault when the German planes, flying in waves, pounded Sheffield for several hours with hundreds of high explosive and incendiary bombs.

The large-scale attack on Sheffield was cut short by a heavy mist, which apparently grounded the Luftwaffe during the early hours of the morning.

Many Bombs Dropped

Many incendiary and high explosive bombs were dropped on Sheffield during the night, but observers insisted the damage and casualties were not heavy in comparison with the previous onslaught.

During the night, British planes were reported to have shot down six Nazi raiders. Home-guards this (Continued On Page Two)

ATHENS, Dec. 16.—Italy's lines in the central sector of the southern Albanian battle front were reported caving in today under relentless Greek pressure.

Advices to Athens indicated the Italian high command now is preparing for a possible retreat from Albania through the port of Valona.

A captured Italian officer was quoted as stating that the Italians were hastily constructing defenses east and south of that famed-scarred port to cover a wholesale evacuation from all southern Albania.

Whereabouts Of Laval Secret

Swiss And British Reports Assert Laval Has Been Arrested

RIVAL GOVERNMENT PLAN IS CHARGED

(International News Service)

VICHY, Dec. 16.—After removing Pierre Laval from the French government, Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and his revised cabinet moved today to create a "non-political" consultative assembly to replace the French parliament.

The assembly, which will advise Petain, will resemble the advisory group created by Chancellor Hitler some time ago to aid him in wartime management of German affairs.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Swiss and British reports said Laval had been arrested at Vichy on charges advanced by Interior Minister Marcel Peyrount, allegedly accusing Laval of conspiring to set up a rival government in Paris and dismember French territory to the advantage of Germany and Italy.

With Pierre Etienne Flandin replacing Laval as foreign minister, the whereabouts and future of Laval for the time being at least were shrouded in secrecy by the French government.

Informed Vichy circles expected, meanwhile, that Flandin soon will proceed to German occupied Paris (Continued On Page Two)

Engineer Killed In Head-On Crash, Three Are Injured

Pennsylvania Officials Are Probing Wreck Near Lock Haven, Pa.

(International News Service)

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Dec. 16.—Pennsylvania railroad officials today were of the opinion that a head-on collision of two freight trains that killed an engineer and injured three crew members yesterday on a siding at nearby Mill Hall was caused when the surviving engineer "evidently misjudged his distance" and overran the main track.

Crushed to death in the steam-sprayed cab of his telescoped locomotive was William L. Broughman, 52, Elmira, N. Y., whose eastbound 95-car train loaded with coal crashed into a westbound train of 93 cars. C. L. Jacoby, Wilkes-Barre, engineer on the westbound train, escaped injury.

Other crew members taken to a Lock Haven hospital were P. C. Schwab, 39, Elmira, a fireman on the eastbound freight, suffering serious injuries, including a fractured pelvis, a crushed left leg, burns and chest and face injuries; William E. Camery, 59, Sunbury, brakeman on the eastbound train, who sustained back injuries, and Roy Cronis, Elmira, conductor on Jacoby's train, who needed only first aid treatment.

George M. Spalde, 57, Sunbury, who suffered painful back injuries, was the only crew member of the westbound train injured seriously enough to require hospitalization.

New Castle One Of 24 Cities In State Designated For New Project

Announcement has been made by Director Walter S. Cowing of the National Youth Administration of the establishment of an NYA production shop in New Castle along with 24 other cities in the state.

"The shops will not be vocational or training centers," said Cowing, "but actual production shops. Youths will gain experience, sufficient in some instances to obtain jobs in defense industries, where more trained men are needed."

Articles manufactured in many cases, will be absorbed by local tax supported institutions. Mr. Cowing said. The shop will be located within the immediate future, according to Mrs. Olive Hewitt of the local NYA, a site having been tentatively approved. It will be of steel design and will accommodate only boys of Lawrence county.

Other shops are being located in Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Johnstown, Chester, Erie, New Kensington, Huntingdon, Forest City, Reading, Allentown, DuBois, Lancaster, Lewistown, York, Philadelphia, Pittston, Pottsville, Hazleton, Nanticoke and Shippensburg.

Italy Reports Fierce Battles

Says Heavy Losses Sustained By Both Italians and Their Enemies

NAPLES IS BOMBED BY BRITISH FLIERS

(International News Service)

ROME, Dec. 16.—Heavy losses by both Italian forces and their enemies were announced by the Italian high command today in a war bulletin on fighting along both the Albanian and African fronts.

The bulletin said enemy pressure continued both in Libya and Albania. Previously the high command announced a fierce battle in the East Libyan desert between British and Italian mechanized forces, stating heaviest fighting was progressing around Fort Capuzzo and Bardia.

British Use Heavy Pressure

Both sides are employing armored cars, tanks, and planes, and, from all reports reaching Rome, it appears that the British are putting on heavy pressure in an attempt to force a decisive battle.

And while defending their empire against attack in both Africa and Albania, Italian planes today were on the alert for new aerial attacks on Italian soil. On Saturday night, British bombers pounded Naples three times, damaging a warship in the harbor and killing and injuring 50 seamen. Official announcement of the Naples attack was not made until yesterday, and details were not disclosed until today.

All interest in neutral military quarters, however, centered on the African battle where it was acknowledged the next week may see the final settlement of the struggle in North Africa.

State Draft Quota Boosted For January

Will Call 4,023 From Pennsylvania Instead Of 1,580 Latest Word

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16.—State draft authorities were notified today by Maj. Gen. W. S. Grant, commander of the Third Corps Army Area, that 4,023 draftees from Pennsylvania would be called up next month instead of the 1,580 previously reported.

The increased number was made possible, explained General Grant, by the completion of housing facilities in the Fourth Corps Area, embracing North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Louisiana.

"The formal requisition when submitted will include the exact number and the prescribed 21 days from the day of formal requisition will be authorized," Gov. Arthur H. James was advised.

Rumors In London Hint Lloyd George May Come To United States

(International News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Strengthening repeated rumors that he may be appointed to succeed the late Lord Lothian as British ambassador to the United States, David Lloyd George called on Prime Minister Winston Churchill for a long conference today.

It was the first time in many months that Lloyd George had left retirement in the country to come to London on official business.

Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Germany just prior to outbreak of the war, has entered the list of possible successors to Lord Lothian. British ambassador to Washington who died last week, informed quarters said today.

There was still no authoritative indication of who will be chosen for the post, however. But an early appointment is expected.

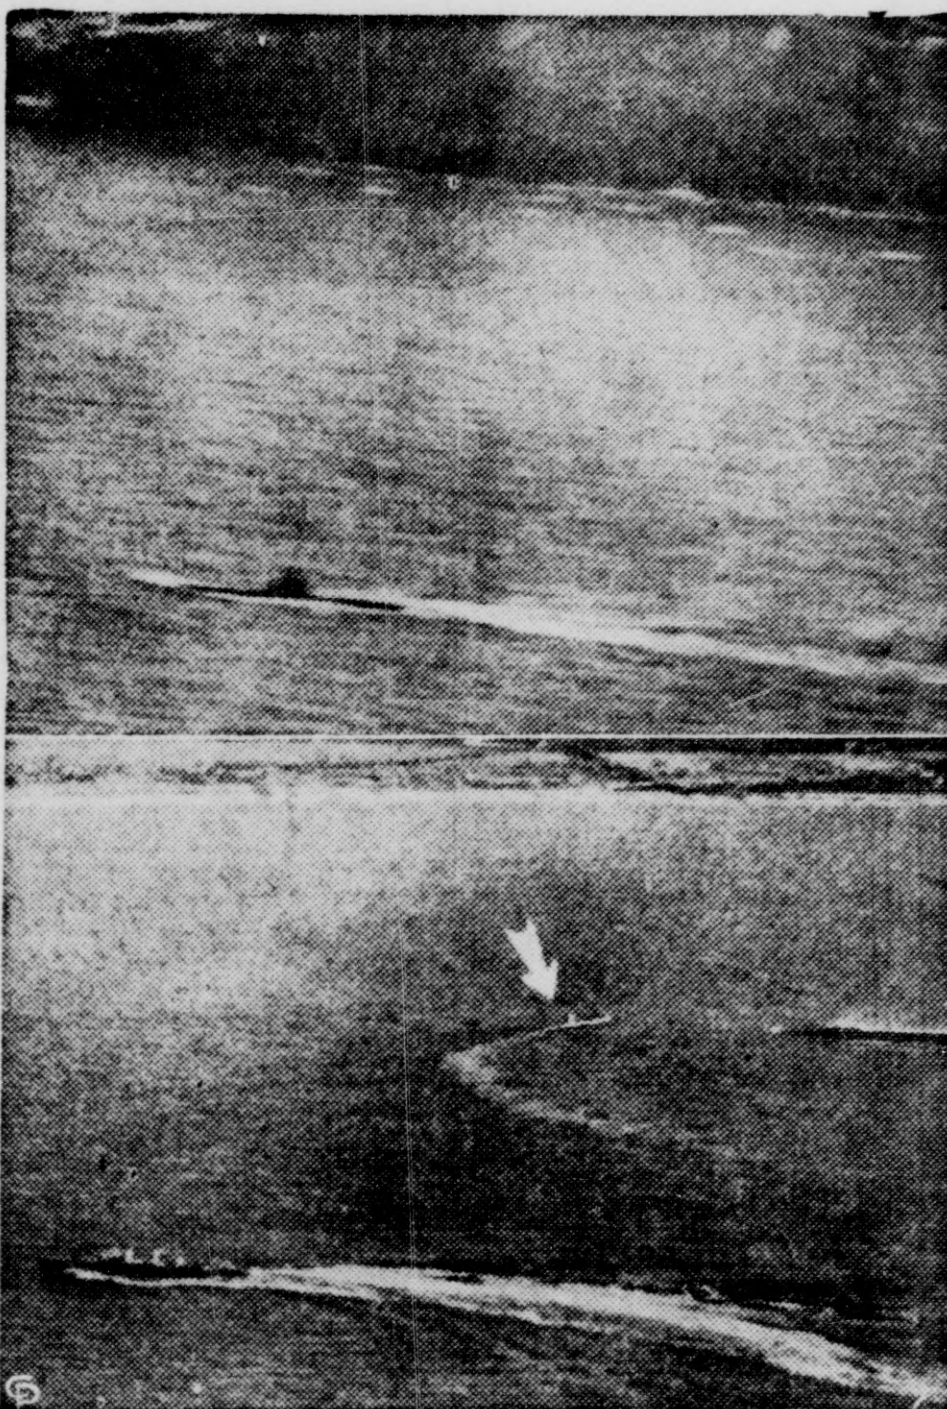

The London Daily Mail said David Lloyd George might be appointed for a short time and also said that Sir Archibald Sinclair, British air minister, is a new possibility.

President Returns To National Capital

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL, en route to Washington, Dec. 16.—President Roosevelt was returning to Washington today for an immediate conference with Secretary of State Hull, presumably to debate the question of further aid to Great Britain.

The president, during a brief visit yesterday to the infantile paralysis foundation he established in Warm Springs, Ga., had not been too optimistic. He told the patients who had lunch with him he would be back to spend two weeks with them "if the world survives."

The president did not enlarge upon this statement but it was reminiscent of the turn he called in the spring of 1939, when he left Warm Springs after telling his friends that he would "be back in the fall if we don't have a war." The war came that fall, but he returned anyway.

Ominous Hints

The ominous statement he made at the luncheon was strengthened later as he boarded his special train, when he told the crowd at the small, yellow, Warm Springs station that (Continued On Page Two)

Music Club Chorus Of 100 Voices Sings At First Methodist Church Sunday

LARGE CHURCH IS FILLED TO LIMIT

Probably no musical event of this Christmas season, will surpass the impressive presentation of "The Messiah" by the Music Club Chorus, given Sunday evening in the First Methodist church, which was so ably directed by Mrs. William J. Caldwell. The presentation scored a tremendous success, and held the capacity audience in rapture, from the very beginning until the end.

As this most efficient singing group was composed of one hundred of the best singers in the city, there was sufficient volume of good quality voices to interpret in a capable manner, the glorious and difficult choruses of this magnificent oratorio, composed by George Frederick Handel, the great master of sacred music. The chorus made an appealing appearance in their black robes with snowy white collars.

Bloom Would Aid Britain With Funds

Would Amend Johnson Act

Also Declares Outright Repeal of Neutrality Act May Be Desirable

WOODRUFF SAYS ACT WOULD MEAN WAR

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Rep. Bloom (D), N. Y., chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, today proposed amendment of the Johnson act if necessary to provide Great Britain with war funds.

Bloom also declared that outright repeal of the neutrality act, of which he is co-author, will be preferable to the present system because it will return the nation to international law.

The declaration of Bloom, one of the administration's highest-ranking spokesmen on foreign affairs in congress, came on the heels of repeated proposals for modification of existing law to permit expanded aid to Great Britain.

Would Mean War
Rep. Woodruff (R), Mich., a veteran of two wars, declared, however, that "scuttling" of the Johnson and neutrality acts will inevitably mean war. The Johnson act prohibits loans to debt-defaulting nations.

"I am for amending the Johnson act—any act—if necessary to help Great Britain," Bloom said. "There's no use fooling yourself—it will be necessary to do it."

"I think the spirit of the country would support congress in lifting the ban on credits for a limited time if England might win with this aid. The credit would be cancelled the minute war is over, whether used or not."

Bloom said that he will call the foreign affairs committee together to consider repeal of the Johnson act only if Great Britain requests it so that she can obtain loans. Great Britain should first exhaust her credits, he said.

Mrs. W. J. Caldwell, the director, had so thoroughly coached the chorus that the phrasing was excellent, some passages being done with tremendous energy and others with the finest pianissimo. The parts were well balanced and were knit into an harmonious singing unit, and the attacks and releases were precise, indicating a responsiveness to fine directing.

Masterful accompaniment support was provided the chorus and the soloists by Mrs. Richard H. Allen and Edwin Lewis, at the piano and organ respectively. They and the director, are splendid technicians, capable of presenting such a noble oratorio.

Handel's "Messiah" has been heard here many times, but a more artistic and inspiring interpretation has seldom been offered.

marshal took it upon himself to act independently of prior consultation with Berlin, the fantastic week-end developments at Vichy may yet prove to be the forerunner of an awakened France, less willing than in the past to survive from hand to mouth under the heel of Germany.

There is no question that Laval has long been the most active and vociferous protagonist of outright and active collaboration with Hitlerism, even to the extent of every move "short of war" against the British empire. Some reports even have hinted that he favored open hostilities against France's one-time ally.

Stories Are Circulating
Certainly this could not have been displeasing to Germany and on any such grounds Hitler would hardly have recommended or ordered his removal.

But stories are being told in Switzerland and elsewhere of an alleged plot by Laval to remove Petain from office and set himself up as a Nazi dictator of France. This might not have been to the fuhrer's liking. One dictator in the Nazi Reich—and France is virtually a part of it—is enough at any one time.

That Laval may have had such aspirations is not beyond the bounds of possibility. A man of humble birth, little traveled save for one historic visit to the United States, a scheming politician and a "slick" bargainer, Laval has always been an "in and out" in French politics, his coveted portfolio in the past always at the mercy of a parliamentary turnover. Perhaps he thought Petain was not long for this earth. Perhaps he envisaged himself as totalitarian ruler of France. Perhaps those delusions of grandeur so frequently appearing to little men in high places warped his judgment and his actions.

BRITISH FORCES PUSHING ACROSS LIBYAN BORDER

cated, were threatening to encircle in a frontier death-trap the remnants of Fascist troops fleeing back from Egypt.

Editor's note: Indicating that the British have taken Sollum in northwestern Egypt and that Fort Capuzzo, 10 miles inside Libya, has been surrounded, the London Daily Mail reported that the British in Libya have penetrated as far west as Bardia.

Bardia in Flames
Advices reaching Cairo said Bardia was enveloped in flames after hours of bombardment by British warships and planes, which also hammered the retreating Fascist columns and their bases.

Another 14,000 Italian prisoners, including several more generals and fresh stocks of material, also were said to have been seized by the British.

The reported thrust into Libya marked the first invasion of Italian soil since the war began. Fort Capuzzo was reported to be taking a severe battering. Rumors that this powerful fort had already fallen were not confirmed in Cairo.

Britain's Mediterranean fleet, playing a prominent role in the offensive, sank an Italian submarine and routed a torpedo boat squadron while pounding Bardia. British naval bombers assaulted far-away Tripoli with an air raid that pumelled it with 40 tons of bombs.

Warships Shell Troops
Cooperating with the R.A.F. and ground units, the British warships off the coast lobbed shells into the midst of Italian troops and their defense works, and reports from the front described Italian casualties as "beyond all pre-conceived proportions."

While ground forces battered the whole area between Sollum and Fort Capuzzo, Italian "suicide" contingents were reported still holding out at Buq Buq in Egypt and at Sollum, near the border. But British troops encircled both of these towns.

Tremendous dust storms in the battle area were reported adding to the difficulties experienced by the British but had not slowed up the advance, it was claimed.

Naval Encounters
Naval encounters occurred off the Libyan and Egyptian coasts when swarms of torpedo-iring Italian "E-boats" supported by submarines, attacked the British warships, but it was announced, the 700-ton Fascist U-boat Naiade was "sunk immediately" by a British destroyer. In addition, it was stated, an "abortive attack" by the "E-boats" was driven off.

(A Rome announcement said the Italian submarine Neghelli torpedoed and sank a British cruiser off Egypt.)

Planes of the British fleet air arm dropped 40 tons of bombs on Tripoli. Their pilots reported sinking three ships in the harbor with direct hits and damaging other vessels.

Wharves, warehouses and other objectives ashore also were said to have been destroyed or damaged. Bardia also was heavily shelled by British naval vessels—with what the navy termed "successful results."

SHEFFIELD IS AGAIN BOMBED

afternoon were tramping the Yorkshire moors in search of the crews of some of the bombers.

Early this afternoon, a "sneak raider" slipped through the London defenses and dropped a dozen bombs on the outskirts of the capital. One of the bombs landed on a school building. The plane also made an unsuccessful attempt to shoot down barrage balloons.

Air ministry officials today expressed the view that the forced suspension of the night attack on Sheffield prevented the Luftwaffe from carrying out another of its "total" bombing attacks.

Editor's Note: In Berlin, it was reported that German planes dropped tons of bombs and started scores of fires in a blitz-raid on an unnamed "important town in the midlands."

Curtailed of the attack, which began on a large scale, apparently minimized the damage. The air ministry reported the casualties were not heavy, and that what fires were started were quickly brought under control.

which raged for a considerable time followed the bomb explosions. There were four separate and violent blasts, it was said.

One R. A. F. plane dropped its entire load of bombs close to a battleship.

The announcement did not specify whether the British planes operated from an African base, Malta, or an aircraft carrier. Either of the latter two was most likely, however, from Cairo to Naples is a flight of more than 1,000 miles.

Select Gifts With Care

A leading manufacturer of paint brushes told me that when his firm began painting the brush-handle the total sales increased enormously, that the housewife practically always chooses the colored brush. Many a parent, otherwise intelligent, is lured to choose a useless toy because of the paint on it. So also are many led to buy a worthless toy because of its novelty, especially the toy that will do unusual things such as the robot type. We need to remember that a toy to be of best educational value to the child must be used by him. All too soon he will live in the world of passive pleasures.

Ask yourself such questions as these: How long will the toy last? How long will it be used? In how many ways will it be used by the child? Will it encourage activity? Will it stimulate creative and social skills?

There are some parents who are guided by intelligence rather than by passing whims as they choose playthings for the growing child. They have imagination and foresight. They can see beyond the paint and levers of a toy. They measure values in terms of what the toy will mean to the child several weeks or several months hence. They consider it in terms of the child's development.

Educational Toys

They consider what won't easily perish but will educate in the widest sense as well as amuse. They center attention upon what will stimulate mental as well as physical activity. They choose toys and tools which encourage creative play—for the young child, for example, crayons, paints, molding clay, large sheets of paper, easel, unpainted blocks with several of the same or of multiple dimensions. For the child beyond three or four, they choose such tools as hammer, saw, vise (that will fasten to any table). In accordance with the boy or girl's age, they build up gradually a good workshop for creative and constructive fun. And they get tools that will work, not cheap toys. Many of the cheap sets of tools are not only worthless but harmful to the child. They discourage him as he tries in vain to make things with them.

Wise parents also choose some books and magazines which stimulate in the child creative and constructive interest. There are such magazines suited to the varying ages of the child. Children's magazines have made rapid strides. They make good Christmas presents and keep coming through the year.

Select Books Carefully

In choosing books for your child be sure the book will not be too advanced for him to enjoy. Select those which will be worth his reading not only once but many times. While there are some good new books, there are also many others which have stood the test of time and some of these are in attractive editions. Good illustrations are desirable, of course, but you won't be led astray by painted jackets of the book nor by colors of its pages. You will want to know after all what is in the book. You will read the book or seek the advice of librarians.

Good Taste

By G. C. Myers

"Since we have married, my husband resents more and more any advice I give him before others. He now answers me in a tone that makes people think that he has no respect for my opinions regarding his health or his conduct. How can I cure him of this attitude?" Sarah J.

Answer: You can cure him at once by refraining from advising him about "his health or his conduct" in the presence of others—even his nearest of kin.

Most men resist marriage as long as they can. After the honeymoon is over, men become hypersensitive regarding the amount of liberty they think they have lost. They begin to take inventory of their freedom and become allergic to wifely advice or suggestions that might lead others to think they are henpecked.

So, the wife who maintains, especially before others, a barrage of such advice as: "I wouldn't eat that pie, dear, or you'll get indigestion," "Don't dance too much with your blood pressure," or "That's your second cigar and you are unwise to smoke it"—well, she is just preparing him for so many evenings away from home for business conferences down town or out of town. All such pieces of advice, if necessary, should be given sotto voce.

Other Readers' Questions Answered
Question: For the past few months, I have been very friendly with a boy who is extremely attentive to me. Should I give him a Christmas present? Or, by so doing might he think me presumptuous? I am reasonably sure he will give me a gift.—Confused.

Answer: Although the exchange element should in no way be connected with the giving of Christmas gifts, we must face facts and admit that it plays a very large part. "If only I knew whether he intends to give me a present. Should I buy one for him?" is just about now forming in a great many feminine minds. Be on the safe side and give him something inexpensive and impersonal—a book, a subscription for a popular magazine in which you know he is interested, etc., etc. If after 3 months of companionship he neglects to give you a Christmas present, he isn't very generous.

Answer to E. L. E.: The type of card you describe is in good taste and greatly used at present. Have your daughter's Christmas cards made up without the "Miss."

People always are asking where the world is going and this reminds us of an inscription on a tombstone. It read:

A passerby read the inscription one day and added this comment:

To follow you I'm not content. Until I know which way you went.

Hatch Act Indictments Prove Tough
Milligan Trying To Get Convictions
Many Violations Hinted At Election

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Leads from the Washington grand jury room, whence the justice department's special assistant, Maurice M. Milligan, is trying to turn loose a lot of indictments for violations of the Hatch act and corrupt practices and other federal laws, in connection with the last presidential campaign, indicate that Prosecutor Milligan has on his hands a much harder job than the one he so successfully accomplished in smashing the Pendergast political machine in Kansas City.

Before election I had occasion to predict that a tremendous number of charges of violations of the Hatch act, in particular, would be made shortly after the polling was over. This forecast has been more than verified. Milligan was drafted to dig into them because of his Kansas City records as a United States district attorney. He dug energetically. Now he has a grand jury available to return indictments if he can make out adequate cases against alleged culprits. It's under the Hatch act especially, that he must, if at all get them.

It's a law which provides, among other things, that a party's organization must not spend above $3,000,000 on any given campaign. Well, what is a party's organization? Why, it's that party's national committee. It generally is agreed that both the Republican and Democratic national committees were meticulous in keeping their respective expenditures inside the $3,000,000 limit.

Unofficial Organizations

But, say Democratic claimants, besides their national committee, the Republicans had a vast flock of little independent local setups, like Wilkie clubs, which, individually, spent money to a total maybe running up into $10,000,000 or $15,000,000. Suppose they did? They didn't spend to exceed a few thousands apiece. The national committee wasn't responsible for them, individually or collectively. If the Podunk Wilkie club chose to blow in three or four figures in cash on pro-Wilkie advertising with its home town paper, who else's business was it? Nobody else's.

If a body of inquisitors, such as Senator Guy Gillette's committee on investigation of campaign expenses, could get full reports from all these sources, add the figures all up and broadcast the total, it might be good publicity stuff. Even so, though, there wouldn't be anything indictable in it. Furthermore, such a reckoning's an absolute impossibility. Indeed, the Gillette committee attempted it and many of the peeve organizations gave the committee the horse laugh.

Said they weren't interested in character; they weren't answerable to a federal investigational group. Neither are they answerable to a federal grand jury.

The Democrats didn't have so many local campaign outfits. In fact, few of them. Their national committee kept inside its $3,000,000, and its minor aggregations weren't of sufficient consequence to be worth much probing into.

What About Relief?

But the Republicans story is that the New Deal's far-flung staff and allied agencies so administered their largesses and that their bosses passed out such hints to their subordinates and beneficiaries as to influence the last election result materially.

The Hatch act prohibits that sort of thing also. But it's hard to prove. Before a grand jury, that funds were so allocated or that such pressure was brought to bear to imply political motives. The assumption's bound to be that money was paid out as per usual. An agency head could ask an underling, "How are you going to vote this year?" in a fashion to make the sub understand what he really meant without saying so explicitly.

In short, innuendoes are available a-plenty. But anything indictable? Not so easy.

It stands to reason that Republicans accuse Prosecutor Milligan and his grand jury of trying to smear the G. O. P. while giving a clean bill of health to the New Dealers, but, in either case, indictments look pretty difficult.

The Pendergast machine was so coarse in its methods that Milligan had a comparatively easy time with it, but national politicians are slicker than that.

As I heard one of them remark, "You can drive an ox-cart through the Hatch act sideways. It was a beautiful thought, though," he added.

Senator Gillette, the upper congressional chamber's chief investigator, is trying to invent some improvements to put into it at the legislator's next session.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ROMANY LAND

When the very soil of their own homeland rose to kill and destroy in one of the worst earthquakes of modern times, terrified Rumanian peasants were seized with a conviction that the phenomenon was a curse visited upon them. Hardly in history has a people been less happy and more bereft of hope, more disposed to accept disaster as something due to them.

Liberty is gone in many lands; but most conquered people at least know who are their masters, with whom they must deal. The bewildered, stunned Rumanians, with part of their land seized by Russia, some by Hungary, some by Germany, with hostile bayonets on every side and the bomber-vultures of Slav and Nazi alike in their skies, scarcely know to whom to bow the knee.

Of such insignificance in their own country are the Rumanians that news dispatches of the earthquake played down the sufferings of Rumanians as of secondary importance, and were concerned primarily with the possible adverse effect of the damage on military plans of Axis leaders who need Rumanian oil, foodstuffs and transportation.

Without a friend among the bandit nations that surround her, and now victim of a blind blow of relentless nature, Rumania indeed meets with the melancholy requirements of a superstitious peasant's "land accursed."

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

The death of the most famous of international crooks in Manchester, England, at the green old age of eighty, reminds us "that crime does not pay." He died broke and was buried in a pauper's grave. Eddie's specialty was safe-blowing and he had a peculiar zest for opening tin-cans in foreign lands, particularly France and England.

He was first heard of back in the elegant eighties when he gave the Pinkertons quite a time trying to keep up with him. It was while prying open small safes in the Middle West that he met Chicago Mayor Churchill, who as a female ranked as a female ranked as high in crime among her sex as Eddie Guerin ranked among his. She was Irish and a rattling good-looking, of a well-born family, but with wild blood in the veins of her.

As a young girl she ran away from home in Ireland and over here met up with a thimble gambler and cattle rustler named Desmond. When the ranchers hanged Jack Desmond and left him slowly turning in the breeze, Chicago Mayor transferred her affections to Eddie Guerin, the safe-blower. Then they went to France, and Eddie robbed the American Express Company office there of thirty thousand dollars, got caught, convicted and was sent to Devil's Island, the French Penal Colony in French Guiana.

Chicago Mayor and Pat Sheedy, the gambler, helped Guerin escape from Devil's Island and back he came to the world of living men, and back he came to crime, for crime was, in the blood of him. For the past forty years or so he was in prison of the time, during which Chicago Mayor passed to a better world, one assured.

One day a sharp-eyed London policeman noticed an old, old man loitering in the doorway of a post-office substation, closely watching the women who came and went.

And presently, edging closer, the policeman saw the old man snatch for a handbag—and miss. And the next moment the hand of the law fell hard upon the thin, bony shoulder of this old sneak-thief, reduced to pocket-picking and snatching women's purses. And the old man was Eddie Guerin, long outlived his time, broke, friendless, an incurable crook. No, crime does not pay.

GIFTS FOR BOTH

Although to mention it I'm loath, I smile at "Christmas gifts for both."

I smile while reading cards which tell: "From Sister Flo to Ed and Nell."

I grin at things which kinkfolk choose: As "something which we both can use."

For instance: woodbox for the grate. Or pillow slips or fancy spread. All duly signed: "For Nell and Ed."

Through five and thirty years of that, Never a shirt or derby hat!

In all the years that we've been wed, Never one pipe for Nell and Ed.

Never—tis gospel truth I tell—A fishing rod for Ed and Nell. Always these double gifts I find For her exclusively designed.

Lawrence County Grangers Return

Report Many Of Resolutions Before State Grange Pertained To Milk Question

Lawrence County Grangers who have returned from the State Grange meeting in Wilkes-Barre, which was held last week, are Pomona master, W. Sharp Fullerton and Mrs. Fullerton, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Emery, D. F. Kyle, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Patterson, Past State Master and Mrs. J. A. Boak, Francis Boak, Walter Rodgers, Henry Wellhausen, Francis McChesney, Eugene Fox, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. George Fulkman, and Mrs. A. H. Fullerton.

Francis Davis and daughter, Olive, of Wampum, spent two days at the Grange meeting and went on to Florida where they will spend several weeks.

Prof. and Mrs. W. H. McCullough and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenkins accompanied the Big Beaver chug of 35 persons to the affair, and Lawrence County can be proud that they were awarded the second prize in the state-wide singing contest. The biennial election resulted in the re-election of Hon. K. S. Bagshaw, of Blair County, as master, Dr. B. H. Dimitt of Butler County as overseer, and W. O. Shannon of Beaver County as lecturer. They, with the other ten officers, were installed by past-master, J. A. Boak.

The Grange went on record as against price fixing and government interference in business. It also refused to endorse federal control of milk. More than 60 resolutions were presented, and many which were presented, pertained to the milk question. The Grange passed strong resolutions favoring temperance and Sunday observance.

overtime—day and night, Sundays included—pouring out seven hundred and seventy thousand shiny new coins every twenty-four hours and still can't make money fast enough. Responsible for the shortage in small change are the national defense program and many thousands of new weekly pay-envelopes, the increasing use of coin-operated machines, the growing number of federal, state and city taxes, Christmas shopping and a general upturn in business. Experience has shown that an increase of mint production has usually been accompanied by a general upturn in business.

Did you know that coins—metal money—were invented as an adjunct to the great indoor sport of shooting craps? True it is. That's history. It occurred in Lydia, a small but extremely sophisticated state in Asia Minor. The boys in the back room invented the dice game as it is today. The dice were first made of wood or bone, larger than those of today, but otherwise just the same. Tossing for a drink or a weapon or a pair of sandals, the games became complicated and they started using markers. Rough chunks of metal were assigned standard values. Then the chunks of metal were refined into coins. Coins got smaller as we acquire more of what we call civilization. On the Island of Yap, the dollar is a huge round stone, with a hole in it, like a millstone, weighing 120 pounds. It is good for one 18-foot canoe, one-half acre of land or ten thousand coconuts. Stepping out to a night club the young fellow and his girl-friend run a pole through the hole and each take one end of it. The size of coins is always in inverse relation to the size of the national debt.

Treasury Sees Large Increase In Tax Returns

Revenues Exceeding Billion Dollars Are Forecast For First 1941 Quarter

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—National income, rising steadily with increasing defense orders, will produce federal income tax revenues exceeding $1,000,000,000 during the first quarter of 1941, treasury officials forecast today.

Improved business conditions, coupled with tax increases, will pour close to $3,000,000,000 individual and corporate taxes into treasury vaults during the 12-month period ending next June.

Added to other sources of government income such as social security taxes, levies on liquor, tobacco, gasoline and miscellaneous items, the income tax yield will enable the treasury to operate on a balanced budget next year as far as non-defense expenditures are concerned. Income tax collections next March will reflect the recently-enacted tax changes under which personal exemptions have been lowered to $800 for single persons and to $2,000 for married individuals.

Official treasury figures indicated that this lowering of exemptions, plus the special ten per cent defense tax will increase income tax revenues by approximately $320,000,000 during the first half of 1941.

Millions of new taxpayers will be created through the lowering of personal exemptions, and the treasury said some 15,000,000 income tax returns will be filed next March. This is an increase of 8,000,000 over the number filed this year.

Booming business, fed by huge national defense expenditures, is expected to boost the 1940 national income to $75,000,000,000, according to the commerce department. This represents a gain of more than $4,000,000,000 over last year.

Corporate taxes, including excess profits levies, are expected to increase approximately $300,000,000 during the first half of 1941 as the result of recent tax changes. The treasury anticipates that many corporations will decrease dividend payments because of the added tax burden.

Saturday's sentence court was the longest seen in the court house in several years. The custom of holding sentence court almost every week has made for shorter sessions but the one Saturday followed the criminal session.

Not every person who has pleaded or was found guilty was sentenced. There are still a number to be taken care of. The long list of sentences Saturday indicates what the court term would have been had there not been so many pleas. District Attorney John G. Lamoree and Assistant District Attorney L. K. Donaldson work on the matter of pleas constantly. Every court day saved is a savings of several hundred dollars of the taxpayers' money.

Following sentence court Saturday morning a session of desertion and non-support court was held. This is a weekly feature also and every Saturday morning sees wives up telling it to the judge.

Secure Christmas Seals From Stand In Post Office

Christmas Seals may be secured in any number from one to 1,000 at the news stand in the lobby of the post office building, on the public square. Joseph Gumienny, operator of the stand, is cooperating with the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Society in selling the stamps this year.

Gumienny secured an adequate supply of the Seals on Saturday, and persons desiring to buy additional seals may secure them from him.

Don't Drive Autos Against Traffic Flow

McMullen Also Warns Against Poor Parking And Truck Chutes

Chief of police Willis G. McMullen today warned motorists they must obey all regulations in regard to street cars. "Autos are running around cars on Highland avenue hill. When motorists do this they operate against the current of traffic and violate traffic regulations," he asserted.

"Autos also are being parked too far from the curb in North Mill street between North and Falls St. and often delaying street cars. A fine will be meted out for future offenses."

McMullen also rapped some coal truck drivers. "Some of them place chutes on top of loaded trucks. The movement of the truck causes the chute to turn sideways and recently one chute struck and broke a street car window and several persons were cut. This practice must be stopped," he declared then added: "Don't load trucks so high with coal it falls upon the street."

LOCAL BUSINESS LAW WILL BE ENFORCED HERE

Persons who propose to embark in business here must register with the city, according to an ordinance enacted December 27, 1932, according to Chief of Police W. G. McMullen, who has been instructed by Mayor Charles B. Mayne to enforce its provisions.

According to the police chief, numerous truck operators from within and outside the state have conducted business here without a proper license and recently were compelled to secure such a license.

City detectives and police have been instructed by McMullen to watch for persons who embark in business and when they cannot show they have registered and have a license will be ordered to visit the office of the police chief.

They will be given instructions at either his office or that of the city solicitor. They will be required to fill out a form which when completed, will contain information as follows:

Name, permanent address and New Castle business address; tell where he or she has been actually employed for two years; whether single or married, dependents, age and other descriptive points.

The form also requires information as to where the person desires to engage in business and state for how long he has leased the property.

Another point of information he or she must give is whether goods will be sold from door to door, orders for goods taken, or whether or not, he or she intends to engage in interstate commerce.

He must tell the name of the person from whom he buys or give the name of the person for whom he or she will act as agent.

Attached to the form will be the fingerprints and photograph of the person and an affidavit.

Owen Fox Explains Peculiar Find

One of our citizens who brouses around considerably in the open spaces, was mystified recently when he found the body of a ground mole, fastened to a thorn bush in the woods.

He was concerned about this, and talked to Owen Fox about it. Mr. Fox informed him that very evidently this had been the work of the mask shrike.

This bird goes on a foraging expedition, seeking for prey among the small bird and animal life. The shrike had espied a mole that was exploring above ground during the recent mild days, and had been picked up by its wily enemy.

It is a trait of this bird to capture small snakes, sparrows, moles and shrews, and fasten them to thorn bushes, so that it can feed upon the bodies, when desiring food. In the case of the mole and shrew, who have a musky body odor, the bird leaves the body exposed to the air sometimes for three or four days, before feeding on them.

The shrike is about the size of our robin, with beak and claws similar to a hawk.

Laurel Boulevard
Trees Being Moved

At the intersections of Laurel boulevard and Highland, Delaware avenues and Neshannock boulevard, a number of the pine trees and shrubbery have been moved. These latter had been put in by city employees, and have made such rapid growth that it was found necessary to move some of them, as they had become driving hazards, by obstructing the view of motorists in that locality.

Under the supervision of councilman Joseph D. Alexander, superintendent of parks, these evergreens are being placed in the center of the Laurel boulevard parkway, where they may grow without interfering with the motorists' view.

The evergreens are taking the place of the Norway pines, that grew so large that they interfered with the center of the boulevard. For this reason, these trees have been severely trimmed for a number of years. This has affected their graceful appearance, making them disfigured, and the continued trimming would eventually ruin the trees.

Electoral College
Of State Assemblies

Will Cast 36 Votes For Roosevelt In Ceremony At State Capital Today

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 16.—The electoral college of Pennsylvania will meet today at the state capitol and with all the pomp and circumstance laid down by law will officially cast its 36 votes for Franklin D. Roosevelt for president and Henry A. Wallace for vice-president. The same ceremony will occur in other states.

It is an ancient ceremony, as old as the republic. The founding fathers did not trust the great mass of the people to elect their own chief executive and decreed that the most important and wise men of the states should assemble at their state capitals and there select a president and a vice president. Conceivably, Pennsylvania's 36 electors could cast their ballots for the losing candidates, Willkie and McNary, and in earlier days this occurred in several instances.

After the electors have voted, congress will tabulate all the states' votes, totaling 531, on January 6, and on January 20 Mr. Roosevelt will be sworn in for his third term.

Army Reserve Call To Affect Nearly 300 In District

Previous Service Men Will Be Called To Duty By February 15

An estimated 300 men will probably be affected in New Castle by orders issued by the War department, calling into active service all members of the Regular Army Reserve by February 15.

There are 28,793 men in the Reserve in the country, and Sergeant Owen E. Tighe today estimated that there are 300 in the local district. There can be no accurate check made as to the number in the Reserve here, therefore this figure is but an estimate.

Each reservist as he is inducted into the service will be given a bonus, the amount not to exceed $150 and to be determined by the number of months served in the Reserve, according to Tighe.

The Regular Army Reserve is made up of men who have served in the United States Army and have received honorable discharge from the service. Any ex-service man, whether married or single, is eligible for the reserve.

According to a statement issued by the War department, these Reserve men will be used to aid in training selective service recruits, and the call is being made at this time to put more trained soldiers in uniform to keep pace with the draft program.

Liquor Arrests Made In Ellwood

State liquor control agents arrested a number of people in Ellwood City Saturday night, December 14, who were charged with selling liquor illegally.

Among those arrested were Vito and Frances Trotta of 220 North 14th street, Mary Nedeo of 428 Orchard avenue, Anderson Miller alias Howard Walker, 15th street.

Two arrests were also made in Crescentdale, John and Teresa Buckner.

All are arraigned before Alderman James C. Brice.

Awful thought! When a few millions drafted men have returned to private life, they'll be strong enough to demand pensions.

Three Burglary Charges Faced

County And State Officers Arrest Man For Youngstown Road Robberies

Harry F. Crawford, R. D. 7, was held in the county jail today, having reportedly pleaded guilty before Alderman J. C. Brice to three charges of burglary sworn to by Private G. W. Miller of the State Motor police.

Crawford was arrested Sunday at 11 a. m. by Sheriff M. M. Ingham, his deputy, Thomas O'Brien, and Motor Policemen Miller, Corporal Leo Doolan and Private F. J. Norris and M. M. Poloskey, after Crawford had been sought for a burglary allegedly at 3 a. m. Sunday.

According to reports, Crawford robbed the Dawn Dairy, store, Youngstown road July 23, of $10.00, and on August 1, again entered the place, but failed to secure any money.

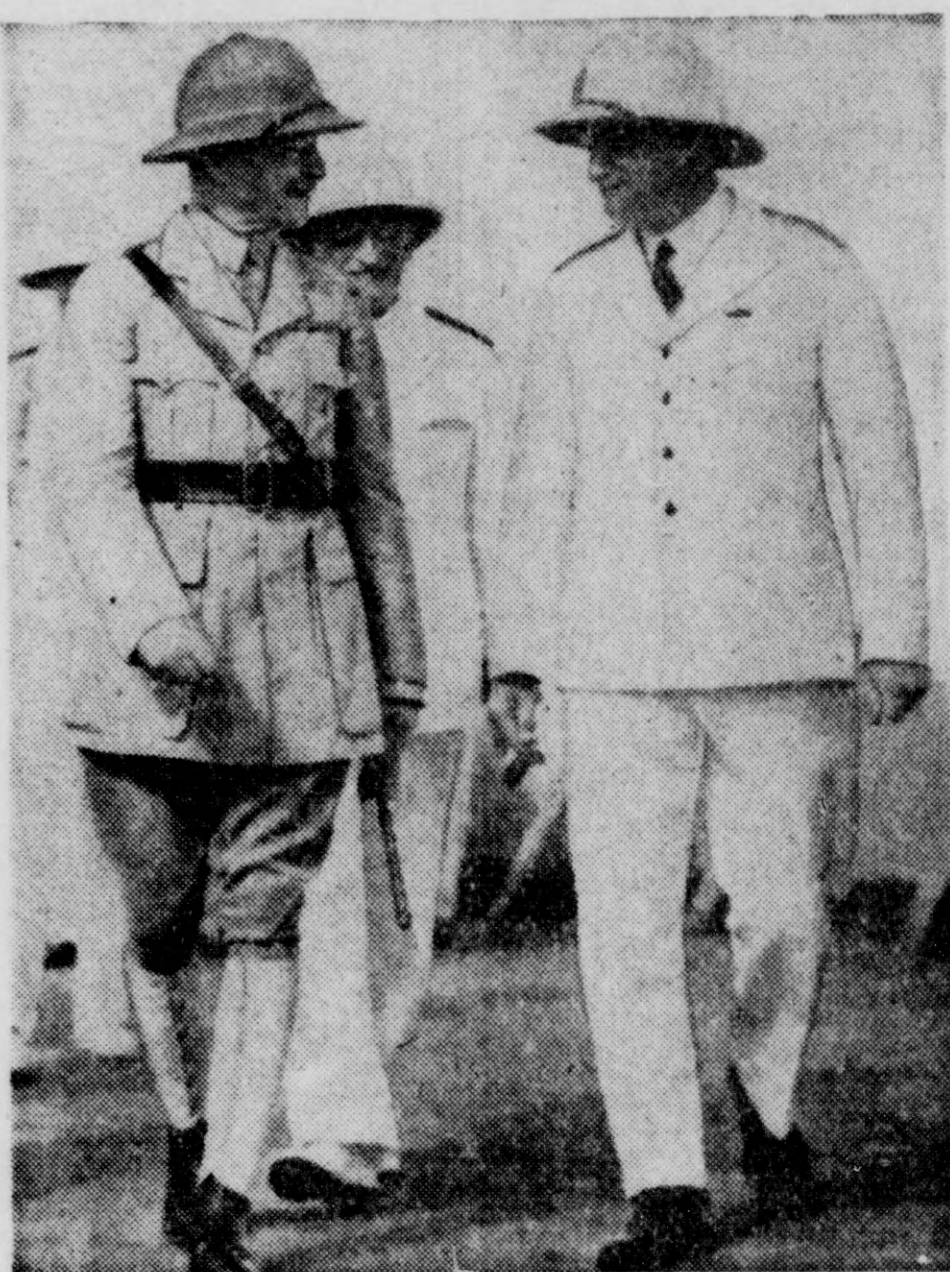

At 3 a. m. Sunday Crawford reportedly entered the W. E. Snee service station, Youngstown road. Mr. Snee assertedly saw someone in the station, entered but Crawford hid in a rear room.

When Snee searched for a revolver in the desk he discovered it and $4.60 missing and ran to his home next door to get another. In the meanwhile the man, reported later to be Crawford, fled in a Chevrolet auto.

Snee notified authorities, gave a description of the auto and the search took the authorities to the home of Crawford on the Mount Jackson highway.

While they were there they espied Crawford drive by. The officers leaped into Sheriff Ingham's car, gave pursuit and finally captured the man who pleaded guilty before Alderman James C. Brice today, the alderman said.

The Taj-Mahal is a costly tomb, built in the 16th century in Agra, India, by Jehan, the mogul emperor, as a burial place for his favorite wife. It is said to have cost four million dollars and required 20 years to build. Auto Owner Must Produce Operator Or Bear Penalty

James W. Kelly, colored, R. D. 2, today was instructed by Mayor Charles B. Mayne to play the role of a "detective," or else pay the penalty for having permitted someone else to operate his auto which police claim was in a collision with a street car, operated by C. K. Roder on the Mahoning avenue viaduct at 10:03 p. m. Saturday. Both the car and auto were damaged.

According to Kelly's story to Mayor Mayne in police court today, he has no operator's permit but does have an auto and permitted a man he described as "Jackson Johnson, Falls street" to operate the auto, in which Kelly was an occupant. The auto allegedly ran into the street. "Jackson Johnson" disappeared.

Kelly today informed Mayor Mayne that "Johnson" informed him he had an operator's license. However, inasmuch as the alleged operator could not be located up to this morning, Kelly said he suspected the driver did not possess one, which leaves Kelly responsible, according to the mayor.

The mayor gave Kelly five days grace in which to produce "Johnson".

said to weigh 130, wore a dark cap, khaki breeches and red rubber boots. When last seen the boys said he intended to go to New York. His name was not given on the State Motor police teletype.

Scouts Secure 350 Deer Hides To Use In Handicraft Work
Two Hundred And Fifty Of Number Are Sent To Tannery—Boys Will Take Care Of Others

With more success than was even hoped for, the local Boy Scout project to secure deer hides for a leathercraft project, ended Saturday with 350 hides being secured from district hunters.
Of this number, Scout Executive John J. Finnessy, stated today that 250 have been sent to a tannery to be treated. The other 100 hides are being turned over to the various troops taking part and the scouts will do their own tanning to obtain the experience.
When the tanned hides return from the tannery, the leathercraft projects will be launched in which trophies, and articles of leather will be made for donations. Due to the fact that more hides were secured than were expected, some of them will be used to make equipment for Camp John M. Phillips.

School Survey Will Be Made

Immediate Purpose Will Be To Appraise Need For Vocational School Here

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 16.—How well do local schools, in the needs of pupils? What practices, courses of studies, or training could the schools adopt which would better equip the young people of Ellwood City to lead happier and more profitable lives? What type of training do the employers of Ellwood City prefer that applicants for employment have? Such is the nature of the information that the nature of the school which is to be established is being planned at the present time. This survey will be made among those best fitted to answer such questions as the above—the graduates of the local high school since January, 1934, those who have withdrawn from school before graduation during the same period, and a representative sampling of employers located in Ellwood City.

It is hoped that as a result of this canvass a revision of the school program can be made which will better fill the needs of the young people according to the facts brought out in the survey. Its immediate purpose will be to appraise the need, if any, for a vocational school which is to be established if such is to be done. It will also afford opportunity for other curriculum changes in the high school along such lines as may be recommended.

School officials have been laying the groundwork for this survey since last summer and will soon be ready to distribute the questionnaire to the former students. Those now attending college will be the first to receive the questionnaires so that they may fill them out and have them returned during their Christmas vacation. Others will be contacted soon after.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The stock market started a new week on a generally easier note, with several leaders dropping a point or more before support developed.

Trading was moderately active at times, but the first-hour volume was limited to 170,000 shares vs. 250,000 in the same period last Friday.

Prices were irregularly lower at the opening, and losses were increased as the session progressed. In the second hour light buying stemmed the reaction, but the general market failed to get much above the early lows.

Jones & Laughlin preferred was an independent strong spot in a generally soft steel group. The stock added about 2 points to Saturday's runup of more than 3, reaching a new peak for the year.

Bethlehem lost more than a point at one time and U. S. Steel almost as much. Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Crucible and National gave up fractions.

Eastman Kodak dropped 2 points. Several representative issues were down a point or more, including Chrysler, U. S. Gypsum, American Shipbuilding, International Harvester and American Airlines.

Standard Oil of N. J., United Aircraft, Johns-Manville and Union Carbide displayed a comparatively firm tone.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Students entering Brown University are turning away from fraternities. It is shown in figures released by Assistant Dean Edgar J. Lanpher.

At the close of the annual rushing and pledging season, according to the assistant dean, the 18 chapters of national fraternities at Brown had pledged 190 freshmen this year. They represent 45 percent of their class.

Only four fraternities filled the 15 pledge quota set by the inter-fraternity governing board.

Last year fifty percent of the freshmen joined fraternities, while in 1936 and 1937 fraternities attracted 56 percent of the new students. In 1935 the organizations pledged 59 percent of the class.

Titan Cagers Defeat Slippery Rock 49-28

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 16.—Slippery Rock's Green and White cagers gave Westminster a scare here Saturday night by tying the score at 23-23 during the third quarter, but the Titans then began clicking; and in the final frame scored 15 points while the Rockets were making 4; and won their second game of the season 49-28.

Westminster was off to an early lead 16-6 in the opening session, but lost their large margin in the second quarter as the half ended 19-17 in favor of the Titans. Slippery Rock cagers, unable to penetrate the Titan zone, relied throughout the game on long shots from midfloor and set-shots from the deep side.

Completely stalled in their scoring attack in the second quarter, Westminster gathered only three points, all on three throws; but battered the Rocket basket in the closing ten minutes of the game.

Rid, Titan forward, was high point scorer, with 17 points, followed closely by Wask and Dummire with 9 each, and Fox 8.

The Titans were off to an early lead as Dummire scored on a pass from Spak, Wask sank one from deep center, and Spak counted on a three-way pass under the basket.

Webster, the Rockets' long-shot artist, sank one from mid-floor, but the Titan lead went to 10-2 as Rid counted on a pass-in from out of bounds, and Wask duplicated.

The first quarter ended 16-6, as Webster and Dart sank shots from mid-floor; and Rid, Spak and Rid again counted for the Titans. All of the Rocket scoring in the opening quarter came on long tosses, as Slippery Rock failed to penetrate the Titan zone.

In the second quarter, the Rockets continued to hammer at the basket from the midway mark. Miller and Carey scored twice for the Green and White from halfway down the floor. Dummire made two charity throws and Hough duplicated for the Rockets. With the score 18-12 in favor of Westminster, Wask added one in two free-throws to end the Titan scoring for the second frame. Slippery Rock added five more points, as Carey shot from the side, Dart made a free-one, and Webster slipped one through from the halfway mark.

The Titans failed to score a field-goal in the second quarter, gaining their three points on free-tosses by Dummire and Wask. The eleven Rocket points came on four long-arches and three single-point shots. After a dismal second quarter, which almost closed the large lead the Titans had gathered in the opening frame, Westminster gave the crowd a case of jitters in the third session as Slippery Rock on corner flips by Carey, Hough and Dart brought the score to 23-23.

But the Blue and White shook off their troubles, and again took up the problem of acquiring a lead. Wask tipped in a basket, Rid made a free one, and Dummire was on the scoring-end of a fast three-way passing game in the scoring zone. The Rockets added a point on Miller's freepoint, but the Blue and White widened the margin to ten points as Rid scored on a pass from outside, Wask dropped in a counter from in front, and Dummire counted under the basket on a long pass from Fox. The score stood 34-24.

As the fourth quarter opened, the Titan offensive continued to roll. Fox scored from deep side, Dummire made one out of two tries from the foul line, and Rid clicked on a one-handed spinner, to give Westminster a fifteen point lead, 39-24.

K. Miller made two free ones for the Rockets, and Rid counted one for Westminster. Fox then followed with a beautiful running shot from the side of the basket, and followed with another in the same spot. Rid added three points on a close-in toss and a free throw.

With the score 47-26, both the Titans and Rockets sent in their second teams, each scoring once. F. Hetra for Westminster and Cottrell for Slippery Rock.

Byron Nelson Is Tourney Winner

(International News Service)
MIAMI SPRINGS, Fla., Dec. 16.—Byron Nelson, P.G.A. champion, won the final golf tournament of 1940, the $10,000 Miami open, but today it was little Ben Hogan, the Texas tornado, who ranked as the outstanding professional of the year.

In finishing third in the tourney, behind Nelson and Clayton Heafner, blond better from Linville, N. C., Hogan became the year's top money player and winner of the Harry Vardon memorial trophy, symbolic of the highest point scorer in major tournaments.

MILWAUKEE — Football as a training ground for track has a supporter in little Harvey Baerwald, 155-pound sophomore halfback at Marquette university.

Baerwald, who hasn't intended to try out for the varsity grid team and reported late, is a first-class pole-vaulter in track.

He says he's positive his legs and shoulders are stronger as a result of his football activities, and he has a "hunch" he'll be a 13-foot man in the vault.

The battling streak record stood at 16 games from June until a Philadelphia freshman, Danny Litwhiler, just in from Wilkes-Barre farm work, hit 414 in 21 games, September 1 to 17, when he met White Moore. The fiery freshe had to share the streak honors, however, because Eno Slaughter, Cardinals star, negotiated the 21-game course in 420, stopping September 27, at the behest of southpaw and former mate Ken Raffensberger, of the Cubs.

While we're on the topic of feats accomplished with a gun, this looks like the spot to mention something about Charles Blank of Ellwood City. The neighboring nimrod brought down a 1,400-pound moose during an expedition in Canada. After contracting for a guide at a rate of $8.50 a day for a 15-day period, Blank stepped out and plucked the mastodontic animal on the first day of the moose-hunt, which has been mounted, weighs 100 pounds.

Byron Nelson Is Tourney Winner

(International News Service)
MIAMI SPRINGS, Fla., Dec. 16.—Byron Nelson, P.G.A. champion, won the final golf tournament of 1940, the $10,000 Miami open, but today it was little Ben Hogan, the Texas tornado, who ranked as the outstanding professional of the year.

In finishing third in the tourney, behind Nelson and Clayton Heafner, blond better from Linville, N. C., Hogan became the year's top money player and winner of the Harry Vardon memorial trophy, symbolic of the highest point scorer in major tournaments.

MILWAUKEE — Football as a training ground for track has a supporter in little Harvey Baerwald, 155-pound sophomore halfback at Marquette university.

Baerwald, who hasn't intended to try out for the varsity grid team and reported late, is a first-class pole-vaulter in track.

He says he's positive his legs and shoulders are stronger as a result of his football activities, and he has a "hunch" he'll be a 13-foot man in the vault.

The battling streak record stood at 16 games from June until a Philadelphia freshman, Danny Litwhiler, just in from Wilkes-Barre farm work, hit 414 in 21 games, September 1 to 17, when he met White Moore. The fiery freshe had to share the streak honors, however, because Eno Slaughter, Cardinals star, negotiated the 21-game course in 420, stopping September 27, at the behest of southpaw and former mate Ken Raffensberger, of the Cubs.

While we're on the topic of feats accomplished with a gun, this looks like the spot to mention something about Charles Blank of Ellwood City. The neighboring nimrod brought down a 1,400-pound moose during an expedition in Canada. After contracting for a guide at a rate of $8.50 a day for a 15-day period, Blank stepped out and plucked the mastodontic animal on the first day of the moose-hunt, which has been mounted, weighs 100 pounds.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Byron Nelson shot a 271 to win the $10,000 Miami Open Golf tournament yesterday. The score was nine under par for the 72-hole distance. He finished one shot ahead of Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C. . . . A gate of $60,000, is expected tonight in Boston where Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion is scheduled to belt out Al McCoy, a rugged New England heavyweight who was outpointed recently by Billy Conn, light-heavyweight crownholder. Louis is figured a five to one favorite. . . . Fritz Zivic and Lew Jenkins will box Friday night in New York with Zivic weighing less than 147 and Jenkins, 136 or more. They are the welterweight and lightweight champions, respectively.

Wampum Hugh's basketball team will play its 1940-41 home games on the Shelby floor, Ellwood City. Coach L. B. Hennon announced today.

Friday, January 3—At New Wilmington.

Tuesday, January 7—Bessemer (Shelby Gym.)

Class B Fives Face Heavy Card

Play Nine Foes This Week Before Retiring For Yuletide Vacation

Before stepping to the sidelines for the perennial Christmas vacation, Lawrence county class B flipping brigades will swish nets with nine foes this week.

Tuesday night's line-up finds Union battling Mercer high, away from home; New Wilmington stacks its impressive pre-season record against Sandy Lake, at Sandy Lake; and East Brook invades Grove City for a second set to with the Grovers.

On Wednesday night Bessemer hopes to pull a successful "iron man" stunt by playing a double-header. In the opening fight in the program, Bessemer battles Princeton. In the nighttime alumni quintet is slated for its annual appearance.

Four games are listed on Friday night. Shenango high performs before a home crowd for the first time, opposing Coach "Art" McCombs' Aspinwall high combination. McCombs formerly served as coach at Ben Franklin junior high.

New Wilmington travels to Mercer in what should be an exciting fracas. Union plays host to Princeton high, and East Brook plays at Mt. Jackson high.

After this week, local class B fives will remain idle until

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

We know that winter is not the proper time to talk about getting a street fixed up but we do think something should be done about Cascade street. . . if a fire should break out on the section between Croton and Butler avenue, it would be impossible for the fire truck to get through. . . in fact anyone walking would have to go around. . . and if anyone should take sick and it would be necessary to get an ambulance. . . the ambulance would never reach its destination. Ruts have been worn so deep into the streets that the pans on the cars rub and when the streets freeze up, you can guess what will happen. . . Director of Streets. . . can't something be done to help this situation?

The recreation center in Mahoningtown is progressing very nicely. . . as long as the weather stays mild. . . by that we mean. . . This center is in need of a coal stove. Sometimes we find people who have a coal stove and have no need for same. . . they might be glad to know that if they would give such an item to this center it would be greatly appreciated. . . so if you can help out. . . just drop a note to this desk and we will pass your thoughts on to the boys in charge of the center.

The Sons of the American Legion are going to fix up a recreation room in the Legion Home. . . to make it a popular place for the members, they desire to obtain a ping pong table or a pool table. . . if you know where such items could be obtained. . . please call 4227-J. . . 93 boys would benefit by this gift.

And if you are still looking for a dog. . . this might be your answer. Call 8044R2. . . the animal is just a dog, about the size of a Fox Terrier, house broke and about one year old; male. Should make someone a good pet.

Not many more days until Christmas will be here. . . time sure flies. We hope that each and every one in New Castle has an enjoyable day. . . maybe you who are more fortunate will see to it that those less fortunate will not be forgotten. . . sometimes a few who really need aid are overlooked in the rush. . . if you want to help but can't find anyone to help. . . why not stop around at the Red Cross headquarters. . . they will be able to set you straight. . . we all need to stick together in times such as we are having today.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16.—In deciding not to accept the post of Republican floor leader, which he held before he became speaker of the house in the 1939-40 session, Elliott J. Turner (R., Delaware), did not by any means remove himself from active participation in planning and carrying out the party's program in the 1941 legislature. The former speaker, who is well-liked and adept in parliamentary procedure, may be made chairman of the Republican steering committee, one of the party's key posts.

William R. Douglas of Camp Hill, former chief of the state alien registration bureau, says the state will go ahead and register all aliens if the U. S. supreme court upholds the constitutionality of the state alien registration act. Others pointed out that the state would have no other course in the event of a favorable high court decision, as not to register the aliens in such an event would be to flout the clear intent of the law passed by the 1939 legislature. It is no secret on Capitol Hill, however, that James administration officials hope the state will be spared the expense.

The appointment by Governor James of a Republican to the state liquor control board breaks a precedent as old as the board. When the liquor board was established in 1933, Governor Pinchot appointed two Republicans and a Democrat. The minority member was Marshall Thompson, dean of the University of Pittsburgh law school. Governor Earle followed up this practice of having a minority member on the board by re-appointing W. Worrell Wagner, a Republican, when his term expired.

The possibility is strong, however, that Governor James may adhere later to the established custom. The story on Capitol Hill is that

Attorney General Claude T. Reno may be appointed to the state superior court, where there is a vacancy, or resign his present post because of illness. William S. Rial of Greensburg, the chairman of the liquor board, would then be appointed attorney general, leaving a vacancy on the liquor board which would be filled by the appointment of Warren R. Roberts of Bethlehem, a Democrat and retiring auditor general—Rial was a deputy attorney general prior to his appointment to the liquor board.

On the shoulders of Pittsburgh's assemblyman from the "Strip district," Homer S. Brown, a Negro, may fall much of the task of carrying on the debate for the Democratic side in the 1941 session. Brown is recognized by his colleagues as probably the ablest member on constitution questions and a capable debater. Some felt he should have been chosen for floor leader or majority whip.

Children's Party At Y.W.C.A. Sunday

About 120 Children Participate In Annual Christmas Event At Y. W. C. A.

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, around 120 1-B's from the Pollock and Lincoln-Garfield schools were guests of Y. W. C. A. club members at the annual Christmas party, sponsored by "Y" clubs.

Following a delightful program in the auditorium, each club member, serving as a hostess, took a little guest to the Green room where refreshments were served and then took him down to the parlor past a gayly trimmed tree where a half pound box of home made candy was given each one. Friends of the "Y" furnishing automobiles for the party were Miss Lois Brennehan, Miss Janet Brown, Miss Jane Cochran, Miss Eleanor Colgan, Miss Nancy Duff, Mrs. R. A. Eckles, Miss Mary Hensel, Miss Pearl Hokenberry, Miss Mary Laughlin, Miss Alison Leslie, Mrs. Roy Long, Mrs. Frank Palumbo and Mrs. Howard Warnock. Miss Mildred Kwiat, as general chairman, presided during the program.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Health education is not medical education. It is a layman's education needed to promote his own health. School health examinations show many pupils with health needs. Two-thirds of Pennsylvania's school pupils have health handicaps. Vision defects is one of the most common defects of children. Many need vaccination or other preventive treatment. Others have impaired hearing, dental defects or are undernourished. Health education should teach four major things. First: Need for aid for remediable defects and abnormalities. Second: Dangers of self-diagnosis and self-treatment. Third: Where to obtain treatment whether indigent or not. Fourth: Recognition of responsibility for one's own health care.
